THE 1989 SESSION of the California legislature saw enactment of the greatest dollar volume increase in workers' compensation benefits in state history.

Following long months of negotiations involving the Governor's office, legislative leaders, employers and the insurance industry, both Assembly and Senate approved the historic pact in post midnight hours as the 1989 session ended.

The agreement provided for $1.5 billion in new benefits under a three year spread.

Maximum weekly temporary disability benefits were increased from $224 to $266 on January 1, 1990 and will be increased to $336 on January 1, 1991, a 50 percent total increase.

The history was part of a clean sweep for labor on legislation affecting working benefits.

The unemployment insurance weekly maximum benefit rose from $166 to $230 and the top benefit under state disability insurance moved from $224 to $336.

All three measures were signed into law by Governor Deukmejian.

Workers' compensation aside, the session otherwise followed the pattern of the past several sessions with Governor Deukmejian signing 32 labor-backed bills and vetoing 32 others.

Certain of the measures signed:

- required the Governor's office to set up a task force to study methods of providing health insurance coverage to California's uninsured.

- added labor representation on the State Job Training Coordinating Council.

- sped up the unemployment insurance waiting period for victims of the 1989 Loma Prieta earthquake.

Meanwhile, the Governor vetoed bills which would have:

- prevented the termination of a collective bargaining contract as a result of a merger, or sale of a business.

- authorized penalties against an employer who advertises for strike-breakers and fails to disclose that a strike, lockout or other labor dispute exists and does not reveal the name of the person whom he or she represents.

- forbidden the Public Utilities Commission to reduce wage rates, benefits or working conditions that were the subject of collective bargaining while setting utility rates.

Fraternally yours,

John F. Henning
