AB 1240

The fate of the Rumford Fair Housing Bill will be determined on May 22 when AB 1240 is given its crucial hearing before the Senate Committee on Governmental Efficiency. The time is 9:30 a.m., Room 4203.

All affiliates are urged to contact their senators to get behind this key civil rights bill of the 1963 session.

Tax Reform

Assembly Bills 1944 and 1945 (Petris) — two additional bills in the Governor's tax reform program — won clearance this Wednesday from the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee by a narrow 8 to 7 margin. These are the income tax bills, endorsed by organized labor, that will produce $50,000,000 a year in increased revenues on a permanent basis from a progressive tax source. They combine an income tax withholding system on wage and salary income starting in July 1964 with a quarterly reporting method of payment for those who are not subject to withholding; forgiveness of one-half of the tax liability on 1964 incomes (a tax cut of $172 million in that year) and a permanent cancellation of tax liability below five dollars for a single person and ten dollars for a married couple, effective January 1, 1964.

Federation Urges House to Defeat Move to Extend Bracero Program

An eleventh-hour appeal to California's Congressional delegation to end the bracero program this year by voting against legislation that would extend Public Law 78 two more years was made public this week by Thos. L. Pitts, secretary-treasurer of the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

House action on the proposed extension is expected within the next few weeks.

In a letter dispatched to California's representatives on May 9, Pitts urged the lawmakers to consider the findings of the California Welfare Study Commission before making their "ultimate decision on this issue."

He pointed out that the Commission's recently published report concluded:

"California's almost 150,000 farm laborers and their families are the 'one occupational group in California so deeply locked in poverty that it is set off from all others.'"

"These tragic circumstances," Pitts pointed out, "continue despite

Senate Unit Dumps Representation Procedures Bill; Assembly Committee Undercuts Women's Eight Hour Law

Committee units of the California Legislature, in two separate actions this week, coupled a body blow against the organizational rights of wage earners with a decision to sacrifice the protections of the historic 8-hour law for women to the greed of manufacturers who are feeding handsomely at the public through of defense expenditures. Both the Senate Labor Committee and Assembly unit on Industrial Relations shared the dubious honors.

On Monday, the Labor Committee of the upper house killed a Federation-sponsored bill, SB 811 (Holmdahl), which would have established democratic machinery at the state level for the determination of representation and collective bargaining rights in intrastate commerce.

Assembly Unit Bows To Financial Interests

Powerful financial interests in California ran roughshod over the rights of consumers this Tuesday with the blessings of the Assembly Committee on Finance and Insurance.

The Assembly unit, on a voice vote that protected Committee members from being recorded on a key consumer issue, killed AB 2288 — the Warren truth in lending bill — by sending the measure to Interim Committee for "study".

Assemblyman Charles Warren of Los Angeles advanced the bill with the support of Governor Edmund G. Brown to require the full disclosure of the cost of credit to consumers on the face of all contracts involving credit transactions. A.B. 2288 would have established a uniform method of setting forth the finance rate in terms of simple annual interest to enable consumers to protect themselves from interest rates that often run up to twenty and thirty percent without their knowledge.

The bill imposed no limits on interest charges; it merely advanced the cause of the "informed consumer" as basic to the private enterprise system. It drew support from the State's Consumer Counsel, the State AFL-CIO, the State Corporations Commission, the California Association of Consumers, the American Association of University Women, the California Credit Union a 12-year effort to implement the law's explicit injunction against manipulating the bracero program to adversely affect the wages, working conditions and employment opportunities of domestic workers in any manner. To insure perpetuation of these artificially depressed conditions by renewal of P.L. 78 would be a profound disservice, not only to the farm workers themselves, but to your own constituents and their ideals of decency and fair play."

Pitts, spokesman for the state's 1.4 million AFL-CIO workers noted that labor's request does not call for

Legislative Notes

The latter feature alone would benefit 850,000 persons who would be relieved of income tax liability at the lower income levels.

Last week, the same lower house committee cleared four bills in the Governor's tax reform program that would speed up the payment of taxes by insurance companies and plug the "principal office" loophole enjoyed by carriers.

In support of the Petris bills, the Federation testified that the most important aspect of the Governor's reform program "is the permanent enhancement of the State's revenue picture".

"This permanent increase in revenues will come from a progressive source (ability to pay) in our tax structure—not by increasing taxes, but by updating collection methods and relating the collections more closely to the incidence of growth, primarily through income tax withholding and the filing of estimated tax returns by banks and corporations and by persons receiving significant amounts of income from non-withholding sources."

About one-half of regularly employed wage and salary workers would not be subject to withholding because of existing exemptions in the State income tax law.

Opposition this week to the Petris income tax bills came from the California Manufacturers Association, the State Chamber of Commerce, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and the California Taxpayers Association. Last week the insurance carriers were the special interest group that opposed the tax reform bills cleared by the lower house Revenue and Taxation Committee.

gram to the children of the unemployed along with other liberalizations in the categorical aid programs, was passed by the Senate on Wednesday by a 30 to 9 vote.

Overall, the package is handsome, but the protections against exploitation of the unemployed person in qualifying for the extended ANC benefits are not all that they should be. This will require careful policing at the local level under State standards when the extension goes into operation.

The liberalization package was amended into AB 59 on the Senate side. Concurrence in the Senate amendments, however, is expected in the Assembly without any trouble. Assemblyman Phillip Burton has been steering the bill through the Legislature.

Public Employee Political Rights

A "do pass" recommendation was given to AB 856 (Petris) by the Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee this Wednesday. In pre-empting the field of political activities, the measure gives public employees at the local level the right to participate fully in political campaigns for State and federal offices during their off-work hours. Restrictions on participation in local political activities is left to local option along with authority to curb political activities during working hours. Similar legislation got by the Assembly two years ago, but was defeated in the Senate.

On another public employee front, the Assembly Civil Service and State Personnel Committee gave a "do pass" recommendation to a Federation-sponsored measure (AB 609—Z'berg) which would curb the practice of employing State employees out of classification. The bill is on the Assembly floor for passage.

Probationary Teachers

The AFL-CIO teachers won a significant victory on the floor of the Assembly this Tuesday. AB 1575 (Veysey) a CTA bill which would have destroyed protections for probationary teachers achieved two years ago, was re-referred to committee from the lower house floor.

Senate Unit Dumps Representation Procedures Bill; Assembly Committee Undercuts Women's Eight Hour Law

injury on Wednesday with the approval of AB 983 (Bane), a bill aimed at reinstating a version of the so-called defense production act to allow defense producers to work women up to 10 hours a day and 54 hours a week under a special "emergency exemption permit" issued by the Department of Industrial Relations. The effect of the Bane bill would be to undercut the women's 8-hour law which has been on the statute books for almost half a century.

Although the Bane bill appears to be well greased by the Assembly leadership for passage through the lower house, it still has a long way to go.

Two years ago the Senate dumped the old defense production act (originally enacted during the Korean War) when the defense producers were unable to offer a shred of evidence justifying its extension in the face of heavy unemployment.

The inability of the proponents to demonstrate any adverse effect of the law's expiration on the national defense effort or California's favorable industrial climate also blocked passage of an almost identical Bane bill in the Senate last year during a special session of the legislature.

Nothing has transpired since then to justify the Assembly Committee's action this Wednesday. Bane did not advance any evidence to justify the bill. In fact, cancellation of the "Skybolt" contracts in the defense sector of the economy was pinpointed last week by the Department of Employment as an important factor contributing to an increase in unemployment that saw the April seasonally adjusted rate of joblessness in California jump to 6.2% — exceeding the national average of 5.7% for the same month.

Over the opposition of the state AFL-CIO, the Assembly unit nevertheless yielded to the pressures of manufacturers seeking to undermine the 8-hour law in the name of "national defense." A "do pass" recommendation was given the Bane bill on the following roll call vote:

AYES: Badham (R), Burgerer (R), Cusanovich (R), Dymally (D), and Song (D)—6.

NOES: Elliott (D) (Ch.), Foran

(D), Gaffney (D), and Veysey (R) —5

AB 983, in providing for reinstatement of the defense production act, is designed to side-step the women's eight hour law as such. At the same time, Bane won Committee approval of another bill (AB 984) which removes all of the existing exemptions in the 8-hour law itself and provides for an 8 hour day within a 40 hour workweek, instead of a 48 hour workweek.

The surface conflict in objectives of the two bills is reconciled by the apparent ulterior purpose Assemblyman Bane has in mind. His interest in strengthening the 8-hour law appears to exist only to the extent that AB 894 will help secure the broadside exemption in AB 893 that would undercut the law.

It was evident on Committee approval of the bill to strengthen the law that the intent is to drop AB 894 as soon as the ulterior purpose has been served. None of the employer groups enjoying exemptions from the 8-hour law even bothered to appear against AB 894. Bane knows that the measure, since it would remove the agricultural exemption from the 8-hour law among others, stands no chance of getting by the Senate.

This cynicism and willingness to use the plight of agricultural workers for "leverage" to aid defense manufacturers, however, was not something that could be taken lightly on the Senate side this Monday. Holmdahl Bill

The defeat of Senator Holmdahl's SB 811 — the Federation's representation procedures bill—was primarily at the hands of agri-business and the corporate growers who carried the day. The Holmdahl bill would have provided election procedures to establish representation and bargaining rights for agricultural workers as well as other wage earners in intrastate commerce who fall outside the jurisdiction of the federal labor-management relations act and NLRB procedures. No machinery exists at the state level to implement state policy favoring organization for collective bargaining and other concerted activities.

The opposition to SB 811 was led by the Associated Farmers, the California Farm Bureau Federation

"Little Norris-LaGuardia Act"

SB 812 (Holmdahl)—the Federation's "Little Norris-LaGuardia Act" which would curb the issuance of anti-labor ex parte injunctions—ran into serious trouble this week in the Senate. The important labor bill was scheduled for hearing on Monday in the upper house Judiciary Committee where it was considered to have a chance of winning clearance to the floor of the Senate.

The Committee, however, sent the bill to the Rules Committee for re-referral. This means that the bill will probably be sent to the Senate Labor Committee which this week killed the Holmdahl representation procedures bill, SB 811. (See lead story).

Full Employment Policy

SB 370 (Holmdahl) is on the Governor's desk for signature. This is a significant measure that establishes a full employment policy for the State and requires the Governor to submit an economic message to the Legislature each year with recommendations for achieving full employment. The impact of the measure will be to bring focus on how the State can supplement federal activities in coming to grips with the unemployment problem.

The Assembly approved the bill by a 50 to 11 vote last Friday, and the Senate concurred in some minor Assembly amendments this Tuesday before sending it to the Governor for his signature.

Social Welfare Package Bill and the Agricultural Council of California—the traditional spokesman for agri-business and opponents of any legislation that would improve the miserable conditions of life and labor of agricultural workers.

Without interfering with the collective bargaining process, SB 811 was aimed at promoting the peaceful resolution of representation issues and discouraging unnecessary use of economic force where democratic procedures would be more satisfactory and less costly to workers, management and the public at large.

The defeat of the Holmdahl bill was by voice vote of the 7-member Senate Labor Committee.

League, Consumer Cooperative groups and others.

The line up against the bill included the California Bankers Association, the State Savings and Loan League, the California Retailers Association, and a University of Michigan professor named Robert W. Johnson, who was hired for the occasion by various loan associations and credit groups. The gist of the special interests pitch against AB 2288 was the proposition that disclosure of the true cost of credit in simple annual interest terms would actually "confuse" the consumer. It was pointed out by Assemblyman Warren that banks and savings and loan associations use the simple annual interest rate concept in advertising to attract savings, but this did not appear to impress the opposition.

Warren indicated his amazement that any person of good will should be opposed to an "informed" consumer. As State Consumer Counsel Helen Nelson put it: "Money lenders are retailers of credit; like retailers of merchandise, they should honor the practice of setting a price."

Warren also reminded the lower house unit (controlled 13 to 7 by Democrats) that "truth in lending" was a plank in the platform of "one of the two major parties"—namely the Democratic Party. The Committee, however, bowed to the special interests of the banks, savings and loan associations, and other money merchants.

Committee Chairman James R. Mills of San Diego prohibited any questioning of either proponents or opponents of the measure during their testimony. Following an hour and a half of pro and con statements, Mills asked for a motion on the disposition of the bill before the Committee. A deadly silence followed, which was broken by the mo-any type of "special consideration for these workers."

"Quite the contrary," he declared, "a legislative program designed merely to place farm workers on an equal footing with other Americans would bid fair to tie up the Congress and the several state legislatures for a full session."

Labor's appeal, he explained, "is rather a plea for discontinuing the unprecedented role of government as agribusiness' active partner in depriving domestic farm workers of any voice in determining their conditions of employment."

Public Law 78 was enacted in 1961 during the Korean conflict as emergency legislation to meet a labor shortage. During its first year 192,000 braceros were brought in. Although the labor shortage has long since passed, the law has been repeatedly extended and the annual importation of braceros has more than doubled. From 1956 to 1959, for example, a minimum of 433,000 braceros were used each year.

Although domestic farm workers are denied unemployment insurance, minimum wage coverage, and tion to kill the bill by sending it to Interim Committee. Assemblyman Jack T. Casey of Bakersfield made the motion, seconded by Victor V. Veysey of Brawley.

Assemblyman Phillip Burton of San Francisco attempted to save the measure by calling on Dr. Richard Morse of Kansas State University to answer allegations by the opponents that "truth in lending" would only serve to "confuse" the consumer. Morse, however, a consumer credit expert and Chairman of President Kennedy's Consumer Advisory Committee, was effectively foreclosed from answering Burton's questions by Assemblyman John T. Knox, who successfully moved the previous question on Casey's Interim Committee motion.

protection of their rights to bargain collectively, the braceros, at the insistence of the Mexican government, are guaranteed a minimum amount of work, workmen's compensation, free housing and transportation and subsistence when work is not available.

In 1960, a minority report issued by the House Agriculture Committee that studied the depressing effect the bracero program has had on farm wages reported:

"In nearly seven out of every ten cases, farm wages in these bracero using areas either declined or remained the same in the six-year period, 1953-1959, when pay in other industries sharply rose. In two out of every ten cases, wages actually dropped."

Only about two percent of the nation's farmers use braceros. Such farms are usually large-scale operations and are frequently corporate owned. In many cases the actual ownership is in the hands of large food processing companies.

This is the background that prompted organized labor's appeal to Congress to prevent an extension of Public Law 78.

Burton followed with an attempt to amend the bill to make the penalty provisions more acceptable, but he was ruled out of order. He then advanced a substitute motion, seconded by Anthony C. Beilensen of Beverly Hills, to give the bill a "do pass" recommendation. Burton and Beilensen were the only two audible "aye" votes in support of AB 2288 as the substitute motion was immediately put to a voice vote and defeated.

The final blow to the consumer, sending the bill to Interim Committee on a voice vote, was perfunctory. The financial interests enjoyed a day in firm control of this key Committee in the Assembly.
